why choose us?

Getting qualified is just the first part of your story. Holding a licence in your trade means you can take on the bigger jobs—and if you're planning on doing work above $3,300 in QLD, or $5,000 in NSW, you must be licensed for the work.

Our service covers the entire licence application process, and we'll supply you with a clean, professional licensing application that fits your skills, qualification and goals.

how long does it take?

Once we start work on your application, the specialist team will work in partnership with you to keep the process as straight forward and time efficient as possible. The typical in-house processing time for the application is around 1 week.

When the application is lodged with your local licensing authority, processing times will vary. Allow at least 6 weeks in QLD or NSW for the government to receive and start assessing your application.

what licence should I get?

Before getting a licence, you need to be qualified. Licensing comes down to how and what you're qualified in, so really the question is—what qualification fits your skills and experience the best?

Understanding this question is key to unlocking what licence is right for you, and your business.

what else do I need?

The requirements for a licence application vary by state. In Queensland, you will require both the trade qualification and BSBESB402 — Establish legal and risk management requirements of new business ventures.

In New South Wales, you will need the trade qualification and provide a short work history, which we can do for you.

companies + partnerships

It's important to make sure you licence your ABN correctly. If you have a company, you may need more than 1 licence.

We provide assistance with determining the correct licences to make sure your business is compliant.
